Dallas Dental Arts

Despite empty roads, masked residents, and struggling institutions making our city unrecognizable, Dallas' grit to persevere remains. From the individuals and business who have been hit the hardest, to those implementing policies, Texas has made the choice to start reopening the economy. In this new reality we all face, here is how Dallas Dental Arts will not only follow CDC and ADA guidelines, but go above and beyond to ensure the safety of every patient and staff member:

Before our patients even walk into our office, we call and ask a series of questions involving covid-19 symptoms and travel outside of the state or country. Although we sanitize our waiting room, we are taking things a step further. We ask patients to remain in their car and wait for a call from us to start heading to our office. This limits the person to person interaction and lets us sit them in a private treatment room - not the waiting room.

Health professionals such as ourselves are the first to ensure that our facility and staff is adhering to the strictest safety and sanitation rules. But what about our patients? Staff and patients alike, are doing their best to be careful about social distancing and wearing masks. When a patient walks in, we immediately make sure that their temperature is checked, have them wash their hands, and lead them to their private room where it will be sanitized after they leave. We ensure our staff and patients safety during treatment by using peroxide which eliminates bacteria and use the most advanced technology to remove any aerosol from the air.

As we figure out best practices, we will continue to implement these safety procedures and any new ones that may be recommended by health officials or the government to keep going forward. We are open and accepting new patients while continuing to provide the highest level of care to our existing ones. We appreciate your support during this time and are here when you are ready to visit the dentist.

Keep Your Lapsed License to Vote!

And Information on Renewal Options

Renewing your license may take several months, but you can use an expired one to vote. The Texas Department of Public Safety, which issues licenses, said the two-month closure of driver's license offices across the state has created a backlog of people who need to renew their licenses. However, the state's voter identification law allows voters to cast a ballot with a license that has been expired for up to 4 years! Voters over 70 can use any expired license. There are also other options for voting, including a U.S. Passport, Military ID with photo, U.S. Citizenship Certificate with photo, Texas Handgun License, Texas Personal ID card issued by DPS, and Texas election ID certificate issued by DPS. For additional questions about voter ID rules, visit VoteTexas.gov.

To address the backlog, the Department of Public Safety began offering renewal services by online appointment at all driver's license offices across the state. The new system allows people to make appointments up to 6 months in advance. It also added some Saturday appointments for renewals and replacements at some offices. In densely populated areas, some offices may already be booked up for months so officials encourage Texans to check availability in surrounding areas where there is less demand. There are also a large number of people who are eligible to renew online. To find out if you are eligible to renew your license online, call 1-866-357-3639 or visit texas.gov.

The Department offers help to people who may need it under the Americans with Disabilities Act. To get help, you should access the "Assistance for People with Disabilities" section on the departments website and fill out a form. Once that request is filed, a department employee will contact you to make accommodations for an in-person appointment. To access this form, visit dps.texas.gov/driverlicense/customer_service/ada.aspx.
